We Need Big Business.
Rubber from Milkweed.
Prayer and the Weevil.
Don't Blame Calvin.
By Arthur Brisbane

F. E. WHITE tells the Chicago Association of Commerce that discouraging his enterprises is foolish, and he's right.

A BIG COUNTRY needs big business. Competing with Europe, we compete with countries that are practically as big as the nations of Europe.

PRESIDENT HARDING favors bigger and bigger railroads through combinations that will simplify transportation and save money. This ought to be accomplished through government ownership. The next best is great railroad combinations, to save overhead and avoid wasteful competition in soliciting business and a thousand other wastes, inevitable in reckless competition.

THE PEOPLE should have brains enough to allow and encourage the biggest possible business, and at the same time get their share of the resulting economies, and prevent reaction based on monopoly.

THERE IS A PLAN to grow milkweed, and make rubber of the milkweed sap. Dr. Larue, of the University of Michigan, believes that it might be done. That would help solve the rubber problem. Every little boy knows how sticky milkweed juice is.

MORE IMMEDIATELY important is the news from Minnesota which tells of a new process for washing low grade iron ore. If the process is proved, that means to settle and guarantee an indefinite supply of iron. Minnesota alone has thirty thousand million tons of iron in low grade ore, which means that the State is richer than if it owned all the gold mines of the world. Real wealth is in the human brain and its inventions, applied to this earth.

AT THE REQUEST of Governor McLeod, the people of South Carolina next Sunday will unite in a prayer against the boll weevil. A good idea, but of course the people of South Carolina will continue to fight, as well as pray, against the boll weevil, remembering the fifth verse of the seventh chapter of Judges, telling how the people of Judah won with the aid of men that lapped the water with his tongue as a dog lapped.

F. A. WOOD, No. 42 Buffalo avenue, Paterson, doesn't believe that John Calvin, whom he admires, ever burned anybody alive. "Give me the name of the history from which you got your information," says he. Any encyclopedia will do.

MR. WOOD NEED NOT, however, cease his admiration for Calvin on account of that burning alive. In that regard, he was the fashion for Protestants to burn Catholics and Catholics to burn Protestants. And both, most joyously, burned those that were neither Catholics nor Protestants. Servetus would be included among the last, probably.

Because it is desired to limit the trip to five days, experts believe that the Bahamas or Bermuda may be chosen, instead of the turning point of the voyage. The trip to Cuba had been originally planned as it was for the Leviathan in the opinion of the Shipping Board officials.

BANK THIEF TRACED TO HUB

Arrest Mystery Banker for Fraud

BAK CLERK FOUND HERE, REPORT

Missing Teller Believed Located in Hub; the Shortage May Exceed Estimates

John Garlick, bank clerk, who disappeared with funds of the Maynard Trust Company, is reported to have been found in Boston.

Garlick has been speculating in the stock market. His shortage may be for greater than original estimates.

When and how he got to Boston are blamed by officials of the Maynard Trust Company for the downfall of their former teller, whose disappearance caused a run on the bank.

The Boston police will question two Boston women on their knowledge of Garlick's whereabouts and his movements previous to the discovery of the shortage.

For months before his disappearance, Garlick and Garlick had been seen to leave for Boston nights and return late in the day. On numerous occasions, in fact, he was seen in the company of women, it is well known Boston cafes.

SOUGHT IN BOSTON. While Boston was being searched for the missing teller, the run on the banks, officials said, had practically subsided, following the receipt of a sum of $45,000 from the First National Bank of Boston.

Three accountants in charge of Charles P. Dale of Boston, engaged to audit the books, have, thus far, uncovered a shortage of $4,000 in the commercial department of the bank.

THE amount in which the $25,000 reported is alleged to have appeared in the bank's funds is expected as follows: Garlick, it is said, would take the money and deposit it in a depository in the commercial department, but the money in the pocket and fail to credit the depository on the books.

The alleged theft, officials say, began after March 27, on the day that state bank examiners audited the books of the bank and found no shortage. The loss of the money was first suspected after June 1, when depositors began to inquire about their accounts.

Letters were sent to 200 depositors asking if their accounts were correct. Reports of shortages were received from 250 of these.

DISBURSE ORDERED. Garlick had been told that he was to be discharged by George H. Crockett, president of the bank, last Saturday. He was advised to leave the bank and find his own way.

When news of Garlick's disappearance reached members of the Assault Militia, the run on the bank began. Recently depositors of a total of $250,000 withdrew from the bank. A total of $25,000 was withdrawn.

VET'S WILL MADE IN TRENCHES HELD VALID

The validity of the will of a Canadian World War veteran drawn up in the trenches and attested by the soldier was established in the Superior court of the late George O. Lambart of Somerville, formerly a private with the Canadian Expeditionary force in France. The legation was the wife, Mrs. Alice Lambart of Lumberton, N. H. The validity of the will had been questioned because there were only two witnesses of the document. It was drawn up, however, by the veteran himself, and was attested by two Canadian Army officers. The value of the estate was not given.

REVERE SCHOOL MASS MEETING ATTRACTS 1000

One thousand citizens of Revere, largely parents of school children, in spite of the heavy downpour of rain, turned out to listen to the protest voiced by Lewis E. Sweeney and William F. Pollard, Jr., over being reduced to the rank of teachers. The public hearing held in the Revere High School Auditorium lasted the hall to its capacity, and more than 500 others, mostly school children, were turned away.

CALLS ILLEGAL

It is the contention of the City Council and the school board that the city will effect a considerable financial saving. Pollard and Sweeney contend that the action of the school committee is illegal. DeMayor Hall spoke in behalf of the two teachers.

SHAMEFULLY TREATED

Another former Mayor of Revere, Francis Wakefield, also defended the two principals. "It is my belief," he said, "that Mr. Pollard and Mr. Sweeney have been wrongfully and shamefully mistreated by the council. A glance at the record of either of the two men will convince any one that both are well-fitted for the executive positions which they formerly filled."

A Clothing
Announcement of Great Importance

WITH the greater part of the season already gone, and the demand only starting for Spring clothes, we bring to our customers an offer that will cause little less than a sensation in the history of the clothing stores of Boston.

1000 HAND MADE SUITS

(At this price in order to make a quick, decisive sale)

NOT one, in our opinion, worth less than $35, with the majority of this great collection of magnificently tailored suits worth fully $37.50 and $40.

It is a well-known fact among the clothing trade in general (but little noted by the clothing buyer) that this has been a persistently backward season for the sale of Spring and Summer suits.

On account of our already big stock we actually hesitated for a time about buying these suits from the manufacturer who offered them to us, even though the price was so low and in face of the fact that we knew them to be of the highest quality and style.

We also hesitated because we feared that our customers might think that these suits at $23.50 merely were $23.50 suits.

THE following facts have overcome our objection to the price, and the suits themselves will overcome yours to a figure so low for quality so high.

- 1.—Made of imported fabrics and of finest American cloths from the looms of this country's most famous mills.
- 2.—Each suit is tailored to perfection.
- 3.—Many are silk lined, many have deep French facings with the seams piped with silk.
- 4.—All of the patterns reflect good taste—there are stripes, inconspicuous novelty weaves, plain cloths, small checks.
- 5.—We think so much of these suits that we have recently cleared out half of our windows and have filled them with a special display. To look at them will be to buy them.
- 6.—GEORGES assures men and young men that they can purchase them with every confidence and in the full knowledge that they are $35, $37.50 and $40 suits which we will sell at $23.50. All sizes—regulars, shorts, stouts and longs.

We consider this positively the greatest offer we ever made in our 44 years in business—and we have some big value-giving achievements to our credit!

SCHOOLS STAY OPEN TO OFFSET LOST TIME

Because the schools in Massachusetts country towns were closed during the winter owing to bad weather, they must remain open until the end of June to make up the 160 days work as demanded by law, announces Burr E. 'MONA LISA' SMILE AS SHE SHOT IS CLEW TO GIRL BANDIT

15 Highland street, East Gloucester, after a short illness, he was in his seventy-third year.

RECOGNIZED BY WIDOW OF VICTIM

Suspect Under Arrest Answers Description Given in Chicago Slaying

By A. J. LORENZ, Universal Service.

Chicago, June 8.—A smile, as distinct and brilliant as that of Mona Lisa, held the secret of the identity of the girl assassin of Ralph Tesmer, wealthy insurance adjuster.

A demure, self-poisoned girl shot Tesmer as he returned home with his wife. She smiled as she ordered her victim to hold up their hands, laughed as her companion stripped Mrs. Tesmer's wedding ring from her finger, and glared as though she had played a prank when she leveled her revolver at Tesmer's head and fired.

CANT FORGET SMILE.

"I shall never forget her smile," Mrs. Tesmer said today. "She wasn't loud, tough or swaggering in her manner, and she smiled so strongly even at the moment when she pulled the trigger."

The smile which fixed itself so deeply on Mrs. Tesmer's mind even in the moment when her husband was killed, the authorities believe, is the fixed grin of a drug addict.

A roundup of suspects, which was begun immediately after the shooting, failed to yield a positive identification by Mrs. Tesmer until she was shown the picture of Gertrude Otson, a paroled offender.

IDENTIFIES PICTURE.

Mrs. Tesmer stared at the picture of the smiling girl. "If her eyes are blue she is the one who killed my husband," she declared.

"Mrs. Otson's eyes are a hazel blue," Detective Sergeant William Cor ascertained.

Search for Mrs. Otson was intensified, as it was recalled that she carried a revolver and was "tup" on the trigger. She is alleged to

CLERK SWAPS $141,000 IN BONDS FOR JOY AT CONEY

New York, June 8.—A possible future described by two strangers, who supported their claims by acting as hosts at a sumptuous dinner at Coney Island, proved too strong a temptation for James Foley, eighteen-year-old messenger for Charles H. Barry & Company, Inc., a brokerage house. Arrested, charged with stealing $141,000 in bonds, which he reported that he had lost, he declared that the night at Coney Island was all he had.

CONDEMNS SUGAR GOUGING IN U. S. OFFICIAL REPORT

Washington, June 8.—(U. S. R.)—Sugar's rapid jump in price, which in a few months has cost the American people millions of dollars, was economically substantiated and officially pronounced according to the interpretation of figures contained in the "Survey of Current Business" compiled by the Department of Commerce and Bureau of Census, made public today.

With the price rising, Cuba exported twenty-five thousand tons of sugar in February, the exports were given as 414,752 long tons and in March, 447,500 long tons. This last figure exceeded the 432,752 long tons export of March, 1922, when the price was low.

Exports of American sugar also were increased in March to 31,843 long tons from the 25,439 figures of April. Both figures were far below March, 1922, when 104,455 long tons were shipped abroad.

OFFICIALS SEEK NOLAN RELATIVES

James Nolan, a married Irishman, for years in Sydney, Australia, died in a hospital at Grand Fork, N.D., while on the way to Boston to care for a sister who had been home and gone to again, friends in this city were struck in the head. Officials of the Sydney line here are trying to locate relatives.

ELOPER'S WIFE DESERTS HOME IN AYER

Ayer, June 7.—(U. S. R.)—Herbert Holbridge, whose business trip ended last October, about the same time Bertha Frazee, station agent, had a head high school girl, disappeared, has been found by her home and gone to again, friends in this city were struck in the head. Officials of the Sydney line here are trying to locate relatives.

It is generally believed the thirty-year-old man and the sixteen-year-old girl eloped. After more than ten months of waiting, Mrs. Holbridge became convinced the couple will not return.

WANTH COMPLETELY.
Holbridge remained completely after leaving his family a milk business providing $10,000 yearly income. A postcard from the girl to her mother, purporting to come from Canada, is the only communication the mother has had. (Globe) Police followed the trail the couple were supposed to have taken, without success. No trace of Holbridge or Miss Frazee, who was about to be made a mother, was found.

WARRANTS OUT.
Warrants for the arrest of Holbridge on a charge of seduction and for Miss Frazee still are in the hands of Chief of Police R. J. Downing of Boston, after months of weary search by police to serve them.

According to Mrs. Holbridge, she at one time promised to get a divorce to enable her husband to marry the young girl.

Has Disappeared

HOLDS UP SOVIET NOTE TO CURZON

London, June 8.—(U. S. R.)—Soviet this day answers to the latest representation of the British foreign office has arrived in London, but has not been presented to the British government.

It is understood the note is of a controversial character on certain points, and before presenting it, Lord Curzon, acting as his government's representative here, hopes to have the Moscow authorities brought to see that it will satisfy Lord Curzon in connection with the retorted demand of the British for Soviet escapees at Tolestan and Kabul, as well as other matters in dispute.

City's right automobile parking tag were tagged in the first day of campaign to do away with the parking nuisance and their owners ordered to appear in court next week.

The campaign is being engineered by the street commission and Captain Joseph Hoppe of the traffic squad.

Motorists complained of cars parked in front of their places of business. The campaign is the result of these complaints.

Automobiles lined on both sides of the street from Park square to Eliot street and up to Dartmouth street were tagged, together with many cars parked on side streets.

Other thoroughfares in which the parking privilege is being abused include Essex place, between Harrison avenue and Chaucery street, Hayward street, Dorn, Temple, School and West street.

LYNN MAN MAY DIE IN CRASH AFTER BLOWOUT

James Brown, thirty-two years old, No. 3 Haddington place, Lynn, received a fracture of the spine from which he may die, and Thomas A. Brennan, thirty-two years old, of No. 28 South Elm street, Lynn, was badly cut and bruised when a front car on their automobile left the road and the car overran them, killing the man instantly.

The two men were passing from the road down toward the beach by the beach road, near the Lawrence-Brown line, the right front tire blew out. The car veered into the curve of the street, ran over a reservation and overturned when a rear wheel broke.

George A. Martin, No. 26 South Elm street, a brother-in-law of the car, returned from the crash in another car, carried his relatives to the Lynn Hospital. Joseph P. Penney, No. 4 Bedford court, Lynn, took Brown to the Lynn Hospital.

Stamps posted found the registration numbers of the wrecked car had been removed.

LARMOORE GIRL FLIES FARRAR DETECTIVES

New York, June 8.—The whole fabric of Geraldine Farrar's suit for divorce from Lon Tollen was threatened today when Stella Larmore, recently vindicated of a charge of being a correspondent, attacked the reliability of its witnesses who testified against her.

"The same detectives who swore to the false and disgusting lies about me which Miss Farrar's attorneys had to abandon were the men who testified against Miss Larmore," Miss Larmore said today.

JUSTIFIED KILLING.

"There ought to be a law against private detectives being permitted to attack the good name of any woman without corroboration. I lost four thousand dollars in two weeks, in spite of the fact that my own family stood by me loyally."

"One of the physicians whom I consulted for the nervous condition brought about by the false charges against me, said:

"If your lawyers had read this testimony and then killed the men who gave it, there couldn't be found a physician who would not have acquitted them."

"If Miss Farrar's lawyers were sure they had a good case for divorce in the alleged incidents in which they mentioned Miss Larmore and Miss Clifford, why did they drag me into the matter?"

"If they were sure of my guilt, why did they not mention me as Stella Larmore instead of as S. L.?"

PUBLICITY THREAT.

When I presented to Mr. Untermeyer that I was going to interfere to clear myself, he tried to stop me by reminding me that I was threatening myself in the way of unpleasant publicity.

"One of the most remarkable things was the way they refused to let me go ahead and expose the testimony they had put in about me. I asked Mr. Untermeyer if he had ever read the testimony over after it had been given, and he said he had not."

"It was a mass of the most amazing inconsistencies. The two detectives contradicted each other about where they stood on the occasion of the alleged incident in Riverside Park."

"They also contradicted themselves about being together on the occasion when they claimed Mr. Tollen had remained for several hours in the apartment which I occupy with my mother and seven brothers and sisters at No. 730 Riverside Drive."

CONTRADICTED EACH OTHER.

"I wonder where those detectives really were on some of the nights they claimed they followed us. It is strange they never saw the other members of the company whom Mr. Tollen also escorted home in the taxi, but nobody ever figured in the reports but Mr. Tollen and myself in the mysterious woman in black."

Accused by Farrar

EMMA AMBLER
Farrar's former lover

"The reports of the detectives have on their face the marks of having been fabricated. And when they were put on the stand separately they contradicted each other."

"This morning in my case a mass of confusion was created. They tried to get me up where they stood when I was not there."

"If the detectives lied about me, how about their testimony against Miss Ambler?"

As a result of the disclosures of the last two days it is considered probable that a divorce Court in the investigation of all the Farrar-Tollen divorce proceedings is inevitable.

When Edward Thomas H. Murphy attended his reports, probably within ten days, Supreme Court Justice Collins may call Miss Ambler and Tollen before him for further questioning.

Miss Farrar denied through her counsel, Samuel Untermeyer, today, that she had condoned Tollen's incident with Miss Clifford in San Francisco.

"We have just paying attention to this fellow's self-advertisement of his company," Untermeyer said. Tollen reiterated his charge, however, that on a recent night at the art Miss Farrar treated it as a joke and condoned it."

HEART BALM SUIT HEARD IN SALEM

Salem, June 8.—Anne G. Silva, forty-year-old Rockport woman, will tell the story of a heart attack, a defeated love of the race for the heart of John Sears, in which she was won by a younger and more vigorous woman.

When she takes the stand in her $5,000 heart balm suit against Sears in Essex Superior Court.

Sears is a Rockport laborer. His first wife, who was a sister of Anne G. Silva, died early in 1920. Now the sister claims Sears promised to marry her soon after.

Sears denies the allegation emphatically, and declares the suit to be "a frame-up to get my property."

"This woman lived in my house with me and her sister, who was my first wife," he said. Mrs. Sears' first was an invalid. I admit that I escorted her to the theatre occasionally during her sister's illness. At no time did I promise to marry her."

"She can produce no letters, no proof, and she hopes to carry this through to get hold of my house in Rockport. I suspect that this action is a plot contrived by herself and her son to get possession of my home."

"I have married again and am extremely happy with my bride. She will assist by my side and aid me in defeating this Silva woman's spurious claims."

BAY STATE MEN SEND HARDING DRY PROTEST

By the adoption of prohibition the United States has been transformed into a dry nation. The prohibitionists have given a new meaning to the word "dry." In the past it has been used to describe a person who is not fond of drinking. Now it is used to describe a nation that has decided to abstain from the use of alcoholic liquors.

The prohibitionists have been successful in their efforts to make the United States a dry nation. They have succeeded in getting the people to believe that drinking is bad for them and that they should abstain from it. They have succeeded in getting the people to believe that drinking is a sin and that they should not do it.

THOSE were the days when the standard of

Since then giant liners have taken the place of antique sailing ships, automobiles sweep our highways, radio grasps education and entertainment out of the air.

Smokers laugh at imitations—for no other cigar has ever equalled the value that Pippins give.

BOSTON AMERICAN'S TWO PAGES OF LAUGHTER

BRINGING UP FATHER

Dinty Fails to Recognize the New Suit

By George McManus

Medbury Says

By John P. Medbury

THE girls are complaining about the boys giving them second ring with imitation diamonds in them. A girl has to be sure engaged to risk on seven diamonds before she can get a real stone.

OF course the sentiment is the same, but a girl can't have tender feelings.

MORE betrothals would be happy if new engagement rings were available.

OF course some girls return the sentiment when the engagement is broken, but whenever she does this, she can't be sure there's something the matter with it.

A LOT of men propose to no more diamonds in the same work that they consider effort to carry a bunch of real diamonds around with them.

THEY just slip a paste diamond ring finger to take the place and get a genuine one.

ANY man would examine the ring closely doesn't really have the feeling.

IT should be known that when a girl has only known a girl two days, she should be sure to give her a ring that costs five or six hundred dollars.

WHEN a girl gets a ring this much, she should have it examined.

AND if the ring is real the man should have his head examined.

ONE guy bought a ring for his girl "one time" and made her love him for the first time.

THEN when she liked him he wanted out anything except the promise he gave her with his lips.

BUT he figured there would have been a lot of money in it. He hadn't been in her company but probably started down with his wife.

ANOTHER fellow gave his sweet heart a solitary ring, but he figured it up with an alarm. Her time about take it off her finger a hot would ring.

THEN whenever he'd hear the bell he'd run down to her house and she would have him back over to the nearest pawn shop.

THREE times he caught her just going in. One of these days he's going to be a couple of minutes late and catch her coming out.

SOLITARY has changed hearts often and it's a nice name when you know her own engagement ring.

SO don't hang to your old friend about your new ring. For all you know she may be wearing it tomorrow.

DON'T LET ANYBODY BE KNOWN AS A MATTER OF COURTESY.

Continued in the world's work, financial and desirable family connections are shown to have you much power with the majority.

A strategy gone to a man's of fine and is received in a great and manner.

The stronger man is a well-known capitalist, one of a group known family or a noted speaker, writer or artist in some field.

If his name suggests influence, he is a general winner, with a winning odds, but if not he finds it difficult to get a business.

Who would it be necessary for a man to establish the fact that he is a celebrity before he is a professional (all found to be a success).

There is a great difference between the courtesy of a social and that of "the North" it is said.

Why does a matter of civility indicate the sort of treatment accorded to a stranger?

And must a man tell his own standing before you give your opinion that you think he is more than a doorman?

Flips From a Flapper

By Flossie Flapper

YES, I think I'll roll my own again this Summer, No. 1 don't smoke.

The girls who have adopted those long, wavy skirts are generally the ones who have good reasons for covering them up.

A lot of dames join gyms for display purposes. Don't need exercise any more than a book agent.

If I go camping this Summer I shall wear the mak-up of Rosalind in the Forest of Arden. How Rosy ever got away with the idea that she was putting over the masculine stuff, I don't know.

It sounds as though flappers would be like women, but I haven't met one with them yet.

If that long-legged supply clerk drapes himself over my busy desk again I'm going to plant a few pins where they'll do the most good.

Party to bed—and you don't meet anybody worth getting acquainted with these days.

Getting yourself up when the clock goes off is quite bad enough without having a husband to chase out of the bay.

A chap who's always informing you that he's got "the straight dope" generally acts as though he might have been taking some of it himself.

If clean-up week ever hits some of the feminine maps around this building their friends won't recognize them.

I observe that a lot of girls are going hiking and camping by themselves to get completely rid of the men. Is that so?

I've just been eluding over "Hamlet" and "Macbeth." Some stories! Ought to interest the coroner, the grand jury and the police.

My trip to East Utopia was a great success. They amused me by letting me now the laws and attend to the baby.

The boss' new sun-lamp, Utopia, has acquired the habit of coughing to and looking us over. Alas, his well-known better half, should pay less attention to that "Fooling" and keep an eye on this one.

Young Jenkins had asked his employer if he might have the afternoon off to attend his grandmother's funeral, and, old as the story was, it worked.

An hour later he was about to enter the funeral ground when he noticed that he was standing beside him but his employer himself.

Young Jenkins did not lose his wit, however. Instead of putting his money down, he turned to the undertaker and said in a tone loud enough for his employer to hear:

"Would you kindly direct me to the cemetery?"

To a Young Lady Named Hazel, Age 22

Desultory Advice on How to Write
Copyright, 1923, Max Company

A young lady writes that she is twenty-two years old, her first name is Hazel, she would like to become a writer and wants advice. Here's a little of it:

Young Miss Hazel says: "I suppose you get a great many letters from people who feel that they would like to take up newspaper work. I want to do something, but don't know exactly how to go about it."

Here is an answer which ought to be better:

Dear Young Creature:

We feel as sorry for you as for a yellow, duffy, new born chick that we once saw walking across an ocean of white eggs in an incubator, not one of her little brothers or sisters yet hatched to keep her company. We thought "What a hard life you are going to have, poor little chick, scratching, struggling; later laying eggs and having them taken away from you; wanting to set, and forbidden to set, at last ending in the fryingpan." As we felt about that chick, starting so courageously across the ocean of white eggs, we feel about any young woman trying to earn a living by writing, or in any other way.

Writing is not easy, and not pleasant work. Wanting to write does not mean that you can write or ever will be able to write in a fashion worth while.

On the contrary, those that really can write often hate to do it, because they do it with intensity, and intense hard work is unpleasant.

Try to arrange earning a living in a way that is not exhausting, physically or mentally.

Whatever you do, if you think that you are going to make a writer, WRITE EVERY DAY A GREAT DEAL.

When you see a man laying bricks with wonderful ease, it means that he had laid many bricks before you saw him. So it is with writing. It is more of a trade than an inspiration, except in the case of the greatest geniuses—and you can count them on the toes of one foot—the men like Shakespeare, that produced perfect work, as a hen lays an egg, not knowing how.

You will find in the beginning, of course, that thinking earnestly makes it hard for you to write, and writing makes it hard for you to think. Little by little, you will do both at the same time, the quality depending on what you have inside of your young head.

Remember that the old things that everybody knows are the most important—old emotions, old virtues, old vices.

The writing of stories is at present extremely profitable—once you succeed. And it is possible in fiction to preach good sermons and do useful work, which is probably what you, being so young, have in mind.

The art of writing is, "Seeing a thing clearly and describing it simply," whether you see a man fall from a fourth-story window and light on his head, or see a thought coming to life in your own brain, and describe that thought as it shapes itself.

Say to yourself, "I will put into words just how a human being feels under certain conditions; for instance, under the influence of jealousy—may you never be able to write about it from experience."

Try to imagine what it is like, then write how YOU think a jealous man or a jealous woman would feel.

Read what the great writers have had to say about jealousy, compare your work and theirs.

For instance, take these two extracts, one from Shakespeare, one from Byron:

I have rather be a toad
And live upon the vapor of a dungeon
Than keep a corner in the thing I love
For others' uses.

Othello, Act 3, Sc. 3.

It is as if the dead could feel.
The icy worm around them steal,
And shudder as the reptiles creep
To revel o'er their rotting sleep.
Without the power to stir or cry,
The cold consumers of their clay!

The Giasou—Lord Byron.

Read these two quotations slowly and then read your own; don't be discouraged if you're not the best of the three.

Bear in mind the saying: "To convince others, be yourself convinced." Try to write always in a serious mood. Say to yourself: "I am one of fifteen hundred million ghosts that live on this planet, walking around for a few minutes in a dress made of flesh, blood, bones and nerves. And I am going to use my ghostly brain to be of use to the other poor ghosts, making mistakes and wondering what to do."

Your Child Afraid at Night?

Treat the Child Kindly, Indulgently. Such a Child Needs Sympathy

Copyright, 1923, Max Company

Many little boys and girls are frightened at night. They are in terror if compelled to sleep alone in a dark room. They awake, frightened by bad dreams, shaking with fear, tormented with all kinds of apprehension.

Such children are to be pitied and they are to be pitied especially when they happen to be "blessed" with parents that do not understand the treatment of such children. There are many so-called "old-fashioned" fathers and mothers, which usually mean IGNORANT fathers and mothers, who believe that nervous, frightened children should be disciplined and made to get over their fears.

Such old-fashioned, ignorant parents send the child to bed alone, preferably up a dark stairway. They put out the light and shut the door when the child is in bed.

AND THE UNFORTUNATE, UNFIT PARENTS DO NOT REALIZE THAT THEY ARE DOING THEIR VERY BEST TO DESTROY THE CHILD'S CHANCE OF SUCCESS AND NORMAL GROWTH.

If you are the father of a highly strung, nervous, imaginative child, be glad that you have such a child, and do all that you can with sympathy, love and kindness to make the child's early years happy and free from nervous strain.

PRIEST IS A STREET WORKER

AKRON, Ohio, June 8.—"We don't want that fellow on the job—he is not a laboring man," a boss in the Akron street car department said when Rev. Father Francis Latt, D. D., of St. Basil and Rector of St. Peter's American Catholic Church, in Kenmore, a suburb, applied at City Hall for a job on the streets. Nevertheless, this industrious priest was put to work and proved himself one of the best workers the city has ever had.

Needs Clothes Badly

Editor Helping Hand: I expect to have a new baby the first week in August, and I have nothing either for the little one or myself. I was obliged to leave my husband, because of his abuse, and as I have five other children, the oldest nine, I am in a pretty bad predicament. All I get to live on is twelve dollars a week, and you know how far that goes with so many mouths to feed and rent to pay. I am appealing to you to help me, as I will be without it you do not.

Offers to Make Dress

Editor Helping Hand: Your paper of June 4 from Mrs. A. P. McK. I would be pleased to make her a Summer dress suitable to go to business in, and if she lives near by would like to help her. MRS. N. C. M.

Would Help C. J.

Editor Helping Hand: If C. J., whose address was in the June 4th issue, will write to me, I will see what I can do for him. If possible, state size of clothes and what kind of work he does, so that I may know what to send him. With best wishes for the good work you are doing. E. H. H.

C. J. has been sent your address and has asked to send the information you request. Thank you.

Mother Hard Pressed

Editor Helping Hand: I have four children, two boys and two girls, and have just buried one. My husband lost his job immediately after we had buried our two-month-old baby boy. I am hard pressed now to

Suggestions to "El" Editor Boston American: Now that the real hot weather is with us, I think the Boston Elevated should do something toward relieving the crowded conditions of its "rush hour" cars. I live in Newton and every night recently I have had to stand up all the way out. In winter this is bad enough but in summer it is, in my mind, the height of discomfort, to say the least. I think that some of the difficulty could be remedied if the "El" would run frequent express cars to Harvard avenue, so that make both ends meet, I would thank you from the bottom of my heart if you could obtain any clothes, shoes or underwear for my children. They are a girl five, a girl eight, a boy seven and a boy four.

Will Aid A. A.

Editor Helping Hand: Will you kindly send the address of the young man who sent in the enclosed letter? If I could communicate with him I might be able to do something for him in a small way, as I have a son the same age as he. I do not see how any one can read these daily appeals and ignore them if they can possibly do anything to help. If I just make my heart ache and long for means to help.

MRS. J. G. You have been sent A. A.'s address. Many thanks. It like the clothes because so many do get helped, which, when sunshine after rain, is a very pleasing.

For Ex-Serviceman

Editor Helping Hand: Kindly send me the address of E. F. A., the ex-serviceman, as he wears the same size clothing as my husband, who is also an ex-serviceman. Perhaps if I knew the size of his shoes some of my dresses might fit them. I wear size 4 and 4 1/2 and would be glad to help him out.

MRS. H. W. R. We have sent your address to E. F. A. and asked him to let you know the size his shoes wear. Many thanks.

Three Large Bundles

Editor Helping Hand: Please send me the address of P. G. and Mrs. J. E. I have the time for the trip would be reduced greatly and passengers to Brighton and Newton would not be jammed up by people who are only going to Kenmore Station or Commonwealth avenue. Newton-lighting cars are filled at Park street. What is the sense of stopping at all of the other subway stations to add to the already overflowing crush? Run from Park street to Harvard avenue, without any stops, and give the out-of-town passengers a square deal. There are other cars from Boylston street stopping at all points.

JOHN P. PRENTISS

I get three dollars a week, and even this I must give up because I am expecting another baby in a month. I get so discouraged at times at the prospect that I sit and cry. If any reader would send me some discarded clothing I would be very pleased. I have a boy five, a boy three and a baby one year old. Both my husband and I take size 28 or 40.

Deserving of Help

Editor Helping Hand: There is a family in my neighborhood who are nice respectable but very poor people, and who are desperately in need of help in every way. I am helping them all I can myself, but unfortunately, haven't the means to do much. The man is working for very small pay. They have had sickness all winter and the elder is now very badly and has accumulated and they are finding it very hard to get along. I am sure if any of our kind readers would be willing to extend their hands to these people in need. They would be more than grateful. Two of the boys, ages nine and twelve, and a baby, one year old, and especially the mother, who takes size 42 are in need of clothes.

Discouraged Mother

DIPLOMACY ALWAYS CARRIES 'EM IN THE SLEEVE

By Herbert Kaufman

CUNO indicates his trump. All the resources of Germany are to be pledged as security for thirty-five annual payments of 1,500,000,000 gold marks each.

National industries and workers will be compelled by proper legislation to validate the agreement.

In the interim, the entente may count upon 2,500,000,000 worth of material indemnity.

Securities to the tune of 10,000,000,000 (gold marks) shall be put in trust and the profits from government monopolies and other supervisable sources collected for creditor benefit.

But there must be no interference with internal policies or restrictions upon export capacity.

The Cabinet, pending acceptance of its proposition, refuses, however, to abate passive resistance, and issues warning that any scheme to sequester Rhine territory is unthinkable.

Tempered Wind for a Shorn Lamb

Little cable birds whisper that Poincare will play in this particular yard. He'll not drop his bone of contention—and holds out for absolute submission to French occupation before further negotiations start.

Belgium is more inclined to drive the best possible bargain, and Stanley Baldwin, hoping thereby to temper the wind for a shorn lamb, is expected to present a scheme based upon Bonar Law's idea of cancelling all British loans to allies above sums necessary to meet United States obligations.

Such are the cards with which the play begins in Brussels tomorrow. These won't decide the game, though. The extra cards that diplomacy always carries in its sleeve are never shown in advance.

Facioli, the Lightning Tamer

Possibility has the same habit. No man can foretell what cataclysmic powers still lurk in nature.

Governments fatuously build super tanks, bombing planes, dreadnaughts and submarines, increase the range and calibre of guns, research chemistry for death breathers, and all their deadly armaments may overnight become shreds of waste of time and money, because some plodding genius has stumbled upon a secret beyond the previous imagination of craft and science.

When Steinmetz, aping Jove, began to toy with thunderbolts, we might have anticipated the miracles just staged at Pittsburgh.

Giuseppe Facioli, another djinn of the lamp, directing the General Electric Company's experimental station there, generates two million volts of electric current and boldly hurls that incredible store of energy about a specially constructed chamber.

Lightning itself is now a mortal weapon. Coming wars will use cities toppled by lightning, shreds of metal and armor plate crumpled like tin by flashes from wireless stations a thousand miles away.

The doors of alchemy open upon synthetic diamonds, coal and precious metals. The gods themselves hardly know from what we seem destined to learn.

The important thing is to combine discretion with knowledge. Prometheus paid dearly for the theft of divine fire. Civilization may yet perish from misapplication of perilous forces. Curiosity kills more than one sort of cat.

Nailed to the Mast

Women's organizations met in protest of President Harding's stand on the sugar schedule. As if executive action would be taken to a detriment of Smoot constituents! The administration has nailed its tariff tag to the mast, and probably crucified Republican hopes in so doing.

Coal, wool and sugar interests will continue to make hay while a different sun shines on politics. Those are get-it-while-the-getting's-good days.

But evidently not for the chemical foundation. Washington is hell-bent for leather after a hundred million dollars' worth of German patents sold by the enemy alien property custodian to a corporation for $250,000.

Garvan, now head of the favored company, must defend the legality of the transaction before the Attorney-General vigorously challenges, together with President Wilson's right to delegate conformity authority to his Acting Secretary of State.

Good business and better strategy. Campaign orators need something to talk about.

As the Twig Is Bent

Young Mr. Edgar McGee of Lincoln, Nebraska, is sued by his brother, Samuel, for twenty thousand dollars for alienating the affection of his wife. Nice family. A more serious husband would rather sue for honor and justice by stepping aside and letting the romance culminate in matrimony.

Two Philadelphia urchins pounce upon a blind man, pin his arms and steal thirty-two dollars. The boys will go to a reformatory and their parents go free. Society should finally concede that juvenile delinquency can't be coped with except at home. Properly reared children aren't highwaymen at twelve.

Penal statutes should deal with folk who endanger the community with neglected offspring.

Ernest and Alline Garso, aged six and eight, confess to a series of robberies which mystify the police of Taunton, Massachusetts. Their father admits he can't handle them. A wise judge would know how to handle Mr. Garso.

Blinders and Checkreins

Child psychology is a generally disregarded subject. Every trainer knows how deftly coils should be managed. It is only with age that we appreciate the necessity of blinders and checkreins. Discipline without sympathetic explanation makes rebels.

Grownups are apt to forget that trifles are tragedies to children. Restraint must be advised by tolerance. Youngsters, we reprimand, but satisfy outraged "self" with themselves into tantrums and illness to provoke compassion. Sometimes their unbalanced fancies even inspire suicidal plans, and once in a while disappointment ends in tragedy.

As witness the case of a schoolgirl of Berwin, Illinois, who killed herself at the gas jet because she wasn't permitted to bob her hair and roll her stockings like her classmates.
